Murder Case Is Nearing End

LAST STATEMENT OF DECEASED IS KEPT FROM JURY

Conversation with His Priest Excluded from Evidence.

At 1:30 this afternoon indications pointed to a close in the taking of testimony in the case of John "Tapout" Laster, on trial for the murder of William H. Coffey. A very small number of witnesses were likely to be recalled by the state and it was quite probable that opening arguments would be made to the jury this afternoon.

Judge Harry Edwards, when the trial was resumed this morning, listened to arguments on Attorney McNemar's effort to introduce into the record the testimony of Richard Payne, given at the coroner's inquisition. After about a half hour, during which time Attorney McNemar cited several cases, Judge Edwards ruled that the testimony would not be permitted to enter into the case on trial.

Counsel for the defense was again halted when an attempt was made to include in the proceeding the statement made by William H. Coffey at the Dixon hospital before his death to Rev. Father Michael Foley and Dr. C. H. Bokhof, as overruled by Judge Edwards. The greater part of this morning's session was taken up in the hearing of arguments before the court, during the time the jury was excused from the court room.

John Laster, who ever since his trial has started, has been in the custody of Deputies S. O. Argraves and John Krug, re-entered the court room this morning at 9 o'clock, the seventh day of the trial. He maintained the indignant attitude which he has carried through the progress of the trial. Miss Helen Feltes, stenographer in shorthand, the proceedings before the coroner's inquest was the first witness to be called by the defense. Attorney McNemar repeated questions asked Richard Payne at the time of the inquisition, leading up to the introduction of Coffey's pistol. At this point State's Attorney Keller objected to the questioning pertaining to the revolver and the court sustained the action.

Miss Feltes was excused for a brief period when Attorney McNemar recalled Carroll Cashman, who has testified before. Cashman was questioned as to the presence at the boat house of John Blackburn, whom, the witness testified was in an intoxicated condition and so drunk that he staggered.

Father Foley on Stand.

Rev. Michael Foley was called and in answer to questions from Attorney McNemar, told of being called to the hospital on the evening of the shooting and talking with William H. Coffey, with whom he had been acquainted since childhood. Rev. Foley told of administering the last rites at the hospital, stating that he realized the young man was in serious danger. Attorney McNemar asked that the witness repeat the conversation he held with the deceased, and at this point the jury was excused from the room and arguments were heard by the court in which the attorney for the defense insisted that the dying statement of the deceased be admitted. Attorney Devine held that the statement could not be admitted pointing out that it was not made in contemplation of death. Attorney Brooks also addressed the court in the argument, after which Judge Edwards held that the dying declaration would not be admitted insofar as the testimony of the witness had shown that William Coffey had entertained a belief that he was dying but that he hoped to get well, and had not shown that his mind was clear and that he understood thoroughly what was said to him before being taken to the operating room.

LaFrance was Called.

John LaFrance, co-defendant with Laster was summoned by Attorney McNemar and on the witness stand, was questioned as to the whereabouts of a colored man called Henry at about the instant of the shooting. LaFrance answered that he knew no such man and refused to answer further questions put to him by Attorney McNemar because of fear of incriminating himself. He stated in answer to questions that he saw three colored men running away from the scene through a corn field after the shooting but had not seen them since. LaFrance was told of his rights by Judge Edwards in answering questions which might be incriminating and exercised this right in reply to a number of questions asked by Attorney McNemar.

FLEEING CASHIER IS TAKEN FROM TRAIN AT DAVIS JUNCTION TODAY

Alleged Hanover Embezzler is Now Under Arrest There.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Davis Junction, Ill., Oct. 17.—Cashier Copeland of the Union State Bank of Hanover, Ill., was arrested here this morning by Chief of Police Campbell on a warrant charging embezzlement sworn out at Savanna.

A companion of Copeland also was held at the two were to be taken to Savanna today by Chief Campbell. Copeland was taken from a train that stopped here today by the chief, who was notified by wire that the man was expected to pass through here.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Dubuque, Ia., Oct. 17.—L. N. Copeland, arrested at Davis Junction, is wanted at Hanover, Ill., for the alleged embezzlement of more than $120,000 from the Hanover Union State Bank of which he has been cashier for the last year. Copeland is 25 years old, unmarried and lived in the Twin Cities prior to going to Hanover to take the bank position. He is bonded by a Baltimore concern for $5,000.

Owned by Stock Company.

The bank is owned by a stock company, of which Jourgen Olson of Minot, N. D., is the principal stockholder. Olson was in Hanover about a week ago and after his departure a regular examination of the bank was made. The rest of the stock is owned by residents of Hanover, principally by retired farmers.

John Eadie, president of the bank, and W. J. Kilpatrick, vice president, have made no official statement regarding the situation, other than to say that there is a shortage of $35,000 out of about $150,000 deposits, and $60,000 in bonds and negotiable securities left with the institution for safekeeping. An item in the form of an old liability assumed when an older bank was taken over is understood to be included in the shortage.

Bank examiners are engaged in making a check of the bank's affairs, and meantime Hanover people are under the spell of the greatest excitement that ever troubled the affairs of the little city.

as to the whereabouts of Richard Payne at the time and shortly after the shooting.

Did Not Accuse Anyone.

Dr. H. Bokhof, who previously testified, was recalled shortly before noon in a second attempt on the part of the defense to place before the jury what is purported to be a dying statement made by William H. Coffey. The physician testified that he was called about 6 o'clock on the evening of August 1 to the Dixon hospital to administer the anaesthetic in an operation on Coffey, Drs. E. B. Owens and E. A. Sicksels being the surgeons. When he entered the ward in which the young man was resting, he testified that Coffey's mind was apparently clear. In response to a question, "was this an accident?" asked by Dr. Bokhof, he testified that Coffey answered in the affirmative. When the physician asked him "who shot you?" Coffey did not refuse to answer but did not answer. According to the testimony.

LEGIONERS INITIATE NEW UNIFORMS WITH A CRACKING VICTORY

Outclassed Davenport in Sunday's Game; Score Was 24 to 0.

The Dixon American Legion football eleven, arrayed in complete new uniforms and with shining new equipment, romped away with the Davenport Tigers yesterday afternoon at Brown's Field, completely taming the visiting aggregation by a score of 24 to 0. The first three quarters were Dixon's, the last session being a good one for the Tigers who tried repeatedly and were very nearly successful in breaking the shut out score.

Dixon won the toss and chose the west goal. Altenderfer kicked off and Dixon held the Tigers for downs, recovering the ball. Clagan smashed through the line for a ten yard gain, Vaughan followed for eight and Gillilan added five more. The Davenport line was unable to stem the rush of the line smashing tactics of the Legion. A forward pass from Vaughan to Schrock failed and then Hess raced around the end for a 15-yard gain, Gillilan advancing the ball for eight more, and Vaughan five, Dixon was then penalized and Hess tore through the holes in the Davenport line for eight yards. Gillilan attempted an end run but failed to gain ground. A forward pass from Vaughan to Hess scored the first down. Hess over the line caught the ball, juggled it for a second and fell to the ground still clutching the pig skin for the first count. Vaughan failed to kick goal and the score stood 6 to 0 in favor of the Legion.

Curran Was Injured.

When play was resumed Curran was forced out of the game with a "dislocated shoulder, Heinze going into the line and playing a sensational game through to the finish. Vaughan intercepted a fumble on the part of the Tigers and tore down the field for a 30 yard gain before being stopped. Gillilan was given charge of the ball on the next play and went over the line for the second touchdown in the first quarter, the score being 12 to 0 in the Legion's favor. For the remainder of the quarter, the Tigers battered away at the Legion line in an effort to find a weak spot but were unsuccessful and resorted to punting the quarter ending with the ball in Dixon's possession.

The first play with the opening of the second quarter, was a forward pass from Vaughan to Gillilan. With four Tigers tackling him, Gilly lunged into the air, grasped the oval and made the pass good. Vaughan went around the end for a ten yard gain, Douglas made five in the same manner. (Continued on page 5.)

Union Heads Outline Plans for Progress of Strike.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Oct. 17.—The second group of railroads in the walk-out of the big five brotherhoods strikes in the east. These roads, whose names were learned here today, include the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the Delaware & Hudson.

Like the first group, which includes the Chicago & Northwestern, the walk out on the second division of roads will affect every section of the country, but hits the east hardest—a section of the country left practically untouched on the first day. The second group walk-out will come at 6 a. m. local standard time, Nov. 1st. The official list of roads in group two follows:

New York, New Haven & Hartford, Delaware & Hudson.

Chicago & Eastern Illinois, St. Louis & San Francisco (entire system).

Louisville & Nashville, Nickel Plate.

Erie Railway System, Atchafalpa, Topeka & Santa Fe (entire system).

Atlantic Coast Line, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh.

Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Lehigh Valley.

Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis, Third Group, Nov. 3.

Three of the remaining largest roads in the country are included in the third group, on which the strike is set for 6 a. m. local standard time, Nov. 3. The entire Burlington system, the New York Central lines east and west and the entire system of the Baltimore & Ohio are among those which will feel the strike blow, Nov. 3rd. The balance of the third and fourth groups include the remaining roads in the country.

LEADERS PLAN TO CARRY STRIKE

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Cleveland, O., Oct. 17.—First conferences on plans for carrying forward the general railroad strike intended to tie up the nation's transportation system were begun here today.

Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Engineers was conferring with the vice presidents of that organization who are to be in direct charge of the strike within their various districts. Mr. Stone was expected to issue a statement at the conclusion of the conference.

With W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen already on the job directing plans for the walk-out of members of his organization and Mr. Stone conferring with his immediate subordinates, the three leaders of the other Big Five transportation organizations were expected to arrive during the day for the general conference of the Big Five leaders on Tuesday.

The three other leaders are L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors; W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen; T. C. Cashen, president of the Switchmen's Union of North America.

SOME LEADERS OPPOSE WALKOUT

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Oct. 17.—While heads of the Big Four brotherhoods ad of the Switchmen's Union prepared to meet in Cleveland tomorrow to complete plans for the rail strike which they have called for October 30, union chiefs today said that leaders of some of the eleven other railroad labor organizations still are opposing a walk-out and would attempt to keep their men from joining with the five organizations which have definitely committed themselves to a strike. The "Big Five" membership numbers only 499,000 of the 2,000,000 railroad employees.

Whether the opposition of these leaders will result in a break between the two groups, which seldom have co-operated wholeheartedly on any question, will not be fully settled until the meeting of the general chairman of the eleven unions here some time this week when issuance of a formal strike call will be voted on formally. Several railroad labor chiefs today said, however, that they believed the majority would rule and that it would be a case of "majority strike, all strike." They professed to see little chance of a break.

AUTO STRUCK BY TRAIN AT NORTH DIXON CROSSING

Sterling Men Escaped Injury Early This Morning.

William Keefer, 1302 Eighth avenue, Sterling, and two companions from that city, had narrow escapes from death at the North Crawford avenue Illinois Central crossing at 7:15 o'clock this morning when their car, driven by Keefer, was struck and demolished by the south bound passenger train.

Keefer and his companions, employees on the construction work on the Dixon state colony, were en route to their work at the time of the accident. Keefer, in a statement to the police, said he saw the train approaching, but realized he was driving too swiftly to stop and thought the momentum of his machine would carry him across the track ahead of the locomotive.

The Ford car had nearly cleared the track when struck by the engine. The collision telescoped the rear end of the car, tearing both wheels and the driving mechanism away and throwing the car to one side of the road. That the three men escaped serious injury is considered miraculous, a few bruises being the extent of the injuries received by anyone of them.

The wrecked machine was taken to a local garage for repairs.

DIXON HIGH BEATEN EASILY BY DEKALB; SCORE 40 TO 0

Dixon Aggregation No Match for Speedy De- Kalb Bunch.

Completely outplayed, the Dixon High school football team was defeated by DeKalb Saturday afternoon by a score of 40 to 0. The DeKalb eleven took advantage of the weakness of the locals through the loss of several valuable men who were out of the game because of injuries and piled up a generous score. Six touch downs, one field goal, and a drop kick from the 30 yard line put the game on ice for DeKalb. They failed, however, to kick goal on any of their touch downs.

The Dixon line was resistance for the battering efforts of DeKalb, long gains made on several occasions. Some unfavorable comment as to officials was heard on both sides, no time being called between quarters, the game proceeding until the first half was played before the whistle blew for the quarter rest as provided. A number of students and fans accompanied the team and witnessed their defeat.

DAUGHERTY AND HAYS LOOK INTO FEDERAL POWERS

Will Present Matter at Cabinet Meeting Tuesday Morn.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, D. C., Oct. 17.—Official Washington's interest in the impending national railway strike centered today in the reaction of railway executives and labor leaders to the proposal of the public group of the railroad labor board, of "one feasible plan" to prevent the tie-up of the country's transportation system.

In brief the board proposed:

- 1.—That the railroads immediately put into effect freight reductions equivalent to the wage reductions authorized last July.
- 2.—That requests for further wage decreases be withdrawn.
- 3.—That the employees withdraw their strike order pending action of the board on any request for further wage reductions which the carriers subsequently might file.

Federal action in connection with the strike had been confined up to today to the conferences arranged by President Harding between the public group of the labor board and the Interstate Commerce Commission, the impression being that the President intended to leave the matter temporarily in the hands of the two agencies created by law to supervise railroad transportation. There was some expectation, however, of a statement from Postmaster General Hays in reply to the announcement that mail trains would not be given special consideration in case the strike developed.

Both Mr. Hays and Attorney General Daugherty have been busy, it was learned, in surveying the situation generally with a view to laying reports before the cabinet at the regular meeting tomorrow. Mr. Daugherty's report would cover the authority of the federal government, it was said and the proper procedure to be followed if the decision was reached to utilize the power of the government directly in the controversy, while that of Mr. Hays was to outline a tentative plan for the maintenance of operation of mail trains.

BOARD'S PLAN IS IMPOSSIBLE

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 17.—The proposal of the public group of the railroad labor board to reduce freight rates to prevent a railroad strike would not prove feasible, Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Railroad Engineers declared today. "The suggestion cannot be worked out," Mr. Stone said. "By the time the reduction got to the consumer it would not amount to one-half of one per cent. The middleman would absorb all of the difference."

W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, would make no direct statement today on the feasibility of the plan.

"Our understanding, and I believe that of the public also, was that the 12 per cent wage reduction of last July would be passed on to the public," Mr. Lee said.

Washington, Oct. 17.—With a final vote expected not later than Wednesday, the senate was prepared today to begin consideration of the German peace treaty, to the exclusion of all other business under agreement limiting each senator's time to one hour on the treaty and ten minutes on reservations. A vote might be taken late today or tomorrow, leaders said, as a number of senators did not plan to consume the full time allotted to them.

NEW BELL FOR GRACE CHURCH EXPECTED SOON

Larger Than Old One; Revivals Drawing Good Crowds.

(Contributed.)

The attendance at the revival services at Grace church yesterday was encouraging and Rev. Jacobs preached two exceptionally strong sermons. He is thoroughly in earnest and absolutely fearless. The central thought of the sermon in the morning was that we need more high type Christians. Many profess to be Christ's people but they are not Christ-like. At the evening service the evangelist spoke over an hour and the attention was intense. His text was, "As the lightning cometh out of the east, and shineth even unto the west; so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be." Matt. 24:27. Miss Minnie Zigler's solo, "The Cross is not greater than His grace" brought a helpful message to the hearers.

The meetings will be continued during this week and over next Sunday, beginning each evening at 7:30 o'clock. Ten o'clock in the forenoon is the time appointed for daily and united prayer.

There will be a meeting for boys and girls tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. Jacobs will give an illustrated talk and we look for a large attendance.

This evening the evangelist will preach on, The Difference Between the Churches of Dixon.

A new bell has been ordered and is now on the way to Dixon. It will be installed immediately after its arrival. It will be larger and of better tone than the one purchased last year.

Driver On Stand.

Max Riggs who drove the car from Polo to Dixon and thence to the Starks gambling resort near the cement plant on the afternoon of August 1, was called to the witness stand by Attorney McNemar when court reconvened Saturday afternoon. Riggs told of meeting William H. Coffey in Polo about 1:30 in the afternoon and coming to Dixon with him, arriving in Dixon about 2 o'clock. He testified that Coffey carried a gun in his hand and fired it several times between Polo and this city. Riggs denied any knowledge of a jug of liquor in the car until they arrived at the cement plant, when he stated that Coffey took the jug out and passed it around. Coffey taking a couple of drinks. He told of seeing Coffey pull the gun in the boat house when the argument started, placing it on the table. "I was standing two or three feet back of Coffey when the trouble began and started for the door, having taken out a few steps when I heard a shot fired. Riggs testified that he saw Coffey fire the gun between Dixon and the Starks resort.

Officer John Winters of the city police department, was called and told of the arrest of Richard Payne, negro, in Dementtown on the evening of August 1, and the finding of a package in his possession in which was Coffey's gun.

Sheriff Was Recalled.

Sheriff Frank Schoenholz was the next witness called by Attorney McNemar. The county official was questioned as to his activities in searching for the house boat following the shooting. During the progress of his testimony, Attorney McNemar offered two drawings, one of the interior of the boat house and another of the Starks' premises, which were examined by the jury and offered in evidence. The sheriff was questioned as to location of different articles of furniture in the boat house as he found them.

Officer Edward Whetstn was called to testify as to the contents of the package taken from Richard Payne who was arrested in Dementtown a few hours after the shooting. During the progress of his testimony a ripple of laughter started through the crowded court room, Judge Edwards halting the proceedings long enough to instruct the sheriff to exclude any persons laughing during the trial. The officer told of finding a 32 automatic revolver wrapped in newspaper which was carried by Payne and identified the pistol shown him by the attorney for the defense which is claimed to be Coffey's gun.

Defense Called Payne.

With the completion of his testimony, Attorney McNemar sprung a surprise in calling for Richard Payne, negro, who together with John "Tap-out" Laster and John LaFrance, were indicted by the special grand jury for the murder of William H. Coffey. Attorney W. H. Winn, who appears for Payne was in the court room and after a consultation with all attorneys interested, Judge Edwards instructed Sheriff Schoenholz to bring the witness into the court room.

While waiting for the witness to be brought from his cell in the county jail, James H. Boyer, local gunsmith, took the stand and testified as an expert on firearms, particularly as to automatic pistols and powder burns.

Refused to Answer.

Payne took the stand immediately upon his arrival in the crowded court room. Attorney McNemar began his investigation by asking questions as to the age of the witness. Judge Edwards instructed the witness as to his constitutional rights and when the attorney for the defense of Laster put the question as to how Payne came in possession of the revolver, claimed to belong to Coffey, Payne refused to answer. The defense put other questions of a similar nature which were objected to by Attorney John P. Devine, the objections being sustained by the court and Payne leaving the stand without having answered any question as to how the pistol came into his possession.

James Sterling of this city was called as an expert on firearms and questioned at some length.

Attorney McNemar addressed the court at the completion of Mr. Sterling's testimony, asking that the story as told by Richard Payne with answers put to him by the state's attorney at the time of the inquest following the death of William H. Coffey, be permitted to be given in evidence. This was objected to by Attorney Devine and the jury was excused while arguments on the point were heard by the court. Judge Edwards closed the day by giving counsel for both sides until 9 o'clock this morning to present authorities on this point of law, the jury being turned over to the sheriff for keeping until that time.

The New Improved HOOSIER BEAUTY not only saves more steps than any other Kitchen device, but in addition gives you a big saving in time and worry.

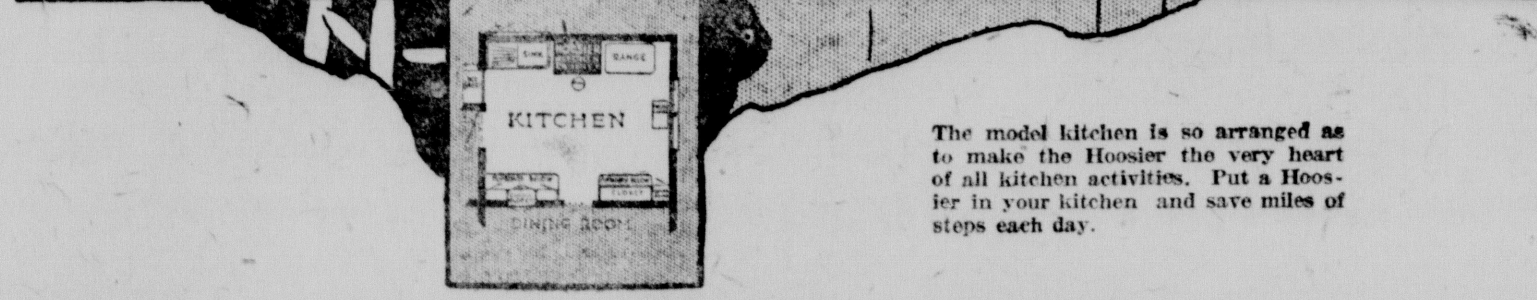

HOOSIER'S more scientific arrangement places everything where it is easiest to reach, and in addition gives you a big uncluttered work-table, which extends all the way back into the cabinet. This arrangement is peculiar to the HOOSIER. ## IF YOU ARE WELL BRED—

You will be prompt in filling a dancing engagement with a young woman. The moment the music starts you will excuse yourself from the girl with whom you danced previously and seek your partner for the next dance.

You will, when invited to a dancing party, be courteous enough to your hostess to dance instead of remaining in the hallways or ante-rooms looking on.

You will not leave the young woman with whom you have danced standing alone waiting for her next partner. Either return with her to her chaperon or find a seat for her.

JOHNSON-COPENHAVER—

One of the prettiest weddings of the season, took place Thursday, Oct. 6th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Johnson, in Polo, when their daughter, Mary Loretta, was united in marriage to Robert George Copenhaver. The immediate relatives and a few intimate friends, numbering in all about thirty-five, were present at the ceremony, which took place at 4 o'clock.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Murray Copenhaver gave a group of vocal selections. The wedding march was played by Miss Marian Ahrens of Dixon.

The Reverend D. Bruce, pastor of the Lutheran church in Polo, read from the Bible, and the Rev. W. Sloan Whitsett, pastor of the Presbyterian church, read the service using the ring ceremony. The bride wore white net over silk and carried a bouquet of rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

A dinner was served by the bride's sister and a group of young women friends. The house was prettily decorated, the bride's table being attractive with the wedding bell and white streamers.

STATE HIGHWAY BONDS

In an article prepared for the Illinois
Journal of Commerce, organ of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce Mr.
Bradt, who has been superintendent of the state highway department from the time of its organization under the Tice act till his retirement recently, calls attention to the fact that the state program makes it necessary to resort for the first time to the marketing of part of the $60,000,000 state bond issue. The funds available from other sources are inadequate for the extended program, which plans are now going into effect.

Mr. Bradt does not suggest what the method of issuing the bonds will be but inasmuch as the interest rate is limited by the terms of the state referendum to four per cent it is the accepted supposition that the state will accept bids at a discount, corresponding to the difference between the fixed rate and the market rate at the time of selling. It amounts to the same thing in the long run, either way, whether the state pays the market rate or takes the market rate out of the discount.

In this connection Mr. Bradt calls attention to what is not generally understood, namely that the state thus far has already raised for the state roads an amount more than half the bond issue, namely, $32,244,307. Of this amount $23,806,727 is from state license fees and $8,251,587 from federal allotments to the state under the federal plan of stimulating state construction; the federal government requiring the state to furnish on any road built under joint auspices an amount equal to that contributed by the federal treasury.

In their present volume both of the foregoing resources are of comparatively recent origin. Mr. Bradt notes that in 1911 the motor license fees amounted to only $105,344 and five years ago to only $1,235,566, but last year the licenses produced $5,915,645
and this year, up to Aug. 31, $6,419,- 761. Sept. 1 the state had on hand a little more than $3,000,000 of road funds, which was being paid out on contracts at the rate of $1,750,000 a month. The federal fund has been cut

Berton Bralery's
Daily Poem
The HUMAN RACE

I've met 'em all along the road
From Portland, Ore., to Portland, Me.;
I've met 'em in their own abode,
I've met 'em in a ship at sea;
Rich, poor, of high and low degree,
Ugly or fair of form and face,
And in the main, wherever they be,
I like the well-known Human Race.

Though there are some who break the code
Of thoughtfulness and courtesy,
Mostly I've met the sort who showed
A ready generosity:
White, black, the Malay and Chinese,
Somewhere within their hearts you trace
Something to which love is the key;
I like the well-known Human Race.

True, there are those who bear a load
Of crime and sin and misery,
And those who reap, but never sow,
Who grab and gouge most greedily;
And there are bores from whom I flee
And fools whose folly grows apace;
But on the whole—twixt me and thee—
I like the well-known Human Race!

Envy
It's all made up of such as we,
Just mortals, very far from grace,
But, viewed with eyes of malice free,
I like the well-known human race.

(Copyright, 1921, N. E. A. Service.)

25 per cent for the time being, but the revenue from license fees is gaining fast and will have quite a jump
when the motor car business attains the volume that is anticipated on the return of good times.

EDUCATION AND SEX EQUALITY

The United States Bureau of Education, through a report made by its statistical division, shows that women are receiving an increasing share of high school and university teaching.
Already there are a larger number of girl than boy high school graduates.
In the colleges women had advanced from 31.7 per cent of the student bodies, in 1890, to 36.8 per cent in 1916.
Today they are probably more numerous proportionately than they were five years ago.

The question may justly rise as to whether better education for women has made and will make for better opportunity. There is no doubt that it has had an effect.

A great many of our high schools are directly preparing young ladies for work they would not have been permitted to do in 1890. Universities have been turning out a larger number of women fitted for legal, business, medical, bacteriological, chemical, and even engineering work than the university of 1890 would have imagined to be possible.

INSECT MENACE

In 1892 some gray beetles, about a quarter of an inch long, crossed the Rio Grande river, from Mexico. They landed near Brownsville, Texas. Agricultural scientists announced, with considerable alarm, that the plume or Mexican boll weevil had invaded the United States.

The boll weevils started to conquer
the cotton belt, pushing their lines forward 50 miles a year.

In 1902 they damaged the cotton crop to the extent of $10,000,000. That caused alarm.

This year the destruction by boll weevils is $400,000,000.

The boll weevil has made its progress against the best resistance that civilized man could make. Opposed at every corner by the ablest scientific brains, it has moved ahead and multiplied as if nothing were in its path.

That gives you an idea of the vitality of insect life.

The boll weevil survives and multiplies because of the excellent care it gives its young. Mother weevil carefully drills a hole in a cotton boll, deposits her eggs, then skillfully seals
the opening.

That is a piece of cunning, implanted in her brain by shrewd Mother Nature who knew that the boll weevil would have hard battles to fight and that its eggs must be hidden.

Cotton rises in price, partly due to destruction of the crop by the boll weevil. The higher price is badly needed by many planters and gives them much satisfaction.

But when you figure the progress made by the boll weevil since its arrival 29 years ago, you wonder how many years, at that rate, it may be before cotton will be in danger of complete extinction from the list of American crops.

If scientists succeed in stamping out the boll weevil, it probably will be by setting loose another insect or a bird that is its natural enemy.

As time goes on, man will realize that insects are his greatest enemies.
They always have been, but we are not sufficiently rested from the job of clearing the earth of wild animals, to comprehend the menace of insect life.

Flies, mosquitoes, moths, and boll weevils are bad enough. But nature has, in readiness to keep our fighting spirit alive, to make us fight for existence, countless millions of kinds of insects.

We have seen what the boll weevil
can do. It is only one of 25,000 different kinds of beetles.

RAILROADS

Americans move faster, have more pep, than any other people. The way they have built railroads proves it.
We have 256,000 miles of the world's 740,000 miles of railway. Europe has 220,000, Asia 70,000.

Asia has nearly six times our area and eight times our population, but only a fourth of our railroad mileage.
Asia will catch up with us in another century, but it will be American brains and American capital that will do it.

The Michigan Supreme Court has ruled that if the wife sells booze, the husband as head of the house is guilty. More proof that liquor is bad for the head.

CONFESSIONS OF A MOVIE STAR

CHAPTER I.

HOW I DETEST BEING KISSED:

"Camera-A! Camera-a-a!"
My director's command through his megaphone and his snappy, decisive gesture with his left arm usually sends a little shiver of joy over me. I suppose it's the joy of release for action. I am always keyed up and eager for my part except when the hero embraces me for the fade-out.

Never have I been reconciled to the kisses my roles demand. Especially do I loathe that intimate, prolonged concluding embrace.

But Nandy hooted when I told him that. Nandy is our publicity man. I mean the chief of the staff. There's a dozen of them. About 27 years ago, Nandy was properly and conventionally christened by his aristocratic parents, "Nathaniel Desborough Anderson." But that's much too long a name for friends.

You can't possibly apply a name like that to a young man who has to know all of your pet secrets and your inner life, and your taste in breakfast foods and kettles and whether you prefer to wear socks or hose at home in hot weather. And therefore he's "Nandy" to our studio crowd.

Of course, the movie publicity man
must be acquainted with the past, present and future of the stars of his company.

"And if I don't have the facts, I may have to invent 'em!" Nandy explained to Mother dear and me when I was first a star.

KNOWLEDGE

BY DR. WM. E. BARTON.

One of the least successful men I know is one who perhaps knows the most. His mind is a veritable junk shop. He knows the most that is not worth knowing of any man known to me.

He knows also very much that is worth knowing—enough to have made him a successful man.

But he is always stumbling over the stuff that is useless, and never able to find the thing that is useful.

If you ask him the simplest question about anything under the sun he will deluge you with information on matters more or less indirectly related to the subject of your inquiry, until finally you break away from him with an approach to violence and a deep sense of gratitude for your own ignorance.

There is a familiar proverb to the effect that it is better not to know so much than to know so much that is not so. There ought to be another proverb to the effect that it is better not to know so much than to know
so much that is mere mental lumber.

Mr. Edison has drawn down upon himself the righteous wrath of some of the people whom he has been trying to educate of late.

They are saying that his questions published as a test of an education are no proper tests; and I think that to a great extent they are right.

A recent magazine article has much sensible talk about "What Nobody ought to know." Knowledge is said to be power. That is not true of all knowledge. Some knowledge is not only impotent but may assist in cluttering up the mind so that even the valuable knowledge which it holds is lost in the scrap heap.

The overloaded mind is not the efficient mind. One may strip off the salts of his mental life, and make of them merely additional ballast.

One thing every man should know,
and that is what sort of knowledge
he can expect to use.

He ought to acquire that knowledge
and keep it where he can get at it.

But perhaps you don't know, my dears, that the reason for such care is that when a big fish bumps into a little fish or a little fish bumps into a big one, usually one of them disappears, skin, fins, tail 'n' all, and it isn't the big one.

Nick and Nancy did lots of errands.
Indeed, they were busier than you'd ever think. For one thing there were so many things to be returned, and Cap'n Pennywinkle hadn't a single minute to spare from his duties to do it. Did you think that the Fairy Queen was the only person who lost anything? No, indeed—think of the boats! Folks were so careless about things, and dropping all sorts of belongings overboard. There were Professor Peabod's eyeglasses with the big rims, and Aunt Fanny Fing-erly's knitting needles, one of the pair that her second cousin Josephine Flat had sent her from the city, with the green knobs—I mean the knitting needles had green knobs, not the city,

although I've seen pictures of cities
with green knobs on the buildings, and I've also seen cities in fairy books with green knobs—there, I mean the cities this time, the books didn't have any knobs. But what was I talking about? Oh, yes, I started to tell you what the Twins found.

Everything went smoothly for awhile in the Land of the Wigglefins.
Cap'n Pennywinkle and Curly his sea horse minded the traffic where it was thickest, and took care that the big fishes from the north did not bump
into the little fishes from the south,
and that the big fishes from the south
did not get in the way of the little fishes from the north, also that the big fishes from the east did not—but

GOODWIN EXPLAINS U. S. W. V. ATTITUDE IN MEMORIAL PROTESTS

Tablets in Court Bldg. Would Not Accomplish Purpose.

To the Editor of The Dixon Evening Telegraph:

A few days ago Wm. E. Baldwin Camp United Spanish War Veterans presented a resolution with the request that you print same. We feel that a few words in support of our action is due the public.

The action of the Board of Supervisors in voting $5,000 for a memorial is at this time in our opinion a useless expenditure. We desire a more fitting memorial; not to ourselves as individuals but to our deeds that have helped to make this nation great and honorable among nations and we ask that these deeds be commemorated. We desire a suitable memorial as a tribute from a grateful and patriotic public. Tablets placed in the obscurity of the county court house would mean nothing to the public and ninety per cent of the children whom we wish above all to educate in patriotism would miss the lesson entirely and would fail to see or know of their existence until such time as they might visit the county court house for their marriage licenses. We wish a memorial that will stand within sight of the public as a tribute to victory, as a tribute to our sacrifices, not only those who did the actual fighting, those who lay in the trenches wondering what the dawn would bring forth, but to the wives and mothers who kept the home fires burning and spent many more sleepless nights than did we and whose agony of suspense exceeded ours many fold.

At a meeting held in the supervisor's room of the county court house consisting of a committee from the board of supervisors and one or more representatives from each patriotic organization, we were given to understand that $5000 was the limit that could be expended without a vote of the people and we were advised to accept the same in the form of bronze tablets as at this time it would be inadvisable to ask for more. There were different kinds of tablets offered and I myself made the motion that we accept the cheapest which carried without a dissenting vote, knowing as we did that surely a conscientious public would eventually feel the humiliation of such a tribute from a county who's assessed valuation is placed at many millions and be discarded for a memorial more suitable, more in keeping with the character and patriotism of the public. One in which all who served and sacrificed whether soldiers, wives or mothers of soldiers might share; namely, A Memorial Hall.

Mr. Editor, I thank you for the space and a conscientious, patriotic and patient public in reading and I ask you, what have you as a memorial to your servants of war that will teach a vital lesson to the children and what do you contemplate? We have forgotten who crossed the Delaware with Washington; we think of but few individuals in the battles of the Wilderness, Chancellorsville or Antietam; we only remember Dewey, Sampson, Shafter and Roosevelt in the Spanish-American War, and Pershing is the outstanding figure in the World War; only those who participated know the actual part performed by those who did the fighting and no general of any nation ever had better support and no General without such support ever achieved such victories; but his is the name that goes down in history and ours on a semi-bronze tablet placed in semi-obscurity. A suitable memorial place where the public may see would be an ornament to the city, a credit to the county and a monument to our deeds. You will impress upon the minds of posterity the respect in which you hold the men of Lee County who helped to make Grant, Shafter and Pershing the Nation great, and to those deeds and to those of our wives and mothers who sent us, let us build a memorial that will teach our children and our children's children that it is honorable to fight for our nation's right and those who do are an honor to the ner and Gilly one when Hess was given the ball and made a thrilling run, but was called back, the Legion being penalized for holding. The ball was on Dixon's 35 yard line when Vaughan made a perfect drop kick the ball sailing through the goal posts and adding three more points to the Legion count, which now stood, 15 to 0.

Tigers Were Helpless.
When play was resumed, the Tigers showed to marked degree their weakness in attempting to batter down the stone wall line of the Legion. Davenport lost the ball on downs and Gilly went around the end for 10 yards. On the next play the Tigers held Dixon and Gilly punted, Schrock recovering the ball which the visitors fumbled. A forward pass from Vaughan to Hess netted a ten yard gain. Vaughan then took advantage of holes in the Tiger line opened by the Legion tackles and advanced four yards. L. McKenzie for the Tigers was compelled to leave the game on account of injuries, Hallstrom taking his place at right tackle. Both sides battled away in the center of the field until the half ended with the score standing 15 to 0 in favor of the Legion. Frugiger for the Tigers was carried off the field following the final play, suffering from a bad sprain of his left ankle. Two physicians were summoned and dressed the wound, Coach Johnson of the Tigers taking the crippled man's place.

When the third quarter opened, the Legion line showed several substitutes in action. Coakley had gone to left

It's a fact, if a man has a hole in his sock it's the first thing you notice—you overlook the good points of his make-up.

That's why it's important to be "finicky" about the details of your dress—that's why you'll want a belt that's a Braxton.

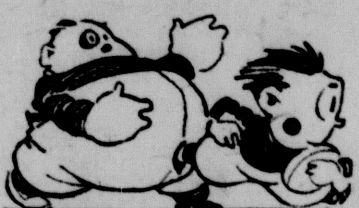

It's a belt with quality to it; it's a belt that will give your trousers a smart hang and a dressy look; it's a belt that's easy to wear and easy to look at.

also attempted to strengthen their line with fresh men, several of whom were just recovering from injuries sustained in the game a week ago with the Dubuque Legion, when the Tigers were trimmed by a 14 to 0 score.

Pass Was Fumbled.
Vaughan kicked off to the Tigers. The ball was fumbled and became the Legion's property when Heinze recovered an onside kick. Long, who was playing his customary flashy game, recovered a forward pass and ran through the goal posts but the score did not count. Church went in at center and both teams lost the ball on downs. A forward pass from Vaughan to Gorham sent the pig skin

Many people on verge of despair have taken Tanlac and recovered.

down the field for a 20 yard gain. Vaughan again passed to Hess for ten yards and Gorham then snapped a pass to Douglas, who carried the ball over the line, swelling the count 22 to 0.

The Tigers were sending in all of their utility players, Murphy going in for Ryan at quarter and Lanz for Nordgren at center. Dixon twice blocked attempted punts and Mickey Long went over the Tiger line for a touchback, adding two more points, the score now standing 24 to 0.

In the four quarter with practically every utility player on the Legion team in the fray and with the Tiger line strengthened somewhat by fresh subs, the visitors made their best showing. They plowed through the Legion line for short gains, the tackling of Hess, Vaughan, Long and Gorham particularly holding the visitors from scoring. The Tigers exerted themselves to the utmost in an attempt to make a smashing finish and break the complete defeat. Forward passes failed, punts were failures and they resorted to criss cross plays and line smashing for short gains. The quarter concluded with the ball dangerously near the Tiger goal.

GETTING THE GOOD OUT OF GOLF

YOU DON'T HAVE TO GO TO TEXAS FOR A SAND STORM

A GOOD "HOLD FOR BEGINNERS"

When the Golfing Bee Gets in a Fellow's Bonnet

SOME born grouches lament in these modern times that the world is all play and no work. That is because we play as we work and we work as we play.

Let the grouch go out to the public golf course. He will see the worker at play. The best day to choose for the grouch's benefit is a legal holiday. He will have to rise with the steely blue mists of the morning. That in itself will put him in a bad temper. However, it puts several golf enthusiasts in the best of humors. Let's take pity on the poor old dear and conduct him around the course.

We have arisen at 6 and arrive at the golf course at 7. The grouch is still rubbing his eyes, grumbly. But several other hundred enthusiasts have rubbed theirs smilingly, heaven only knows how many hours earlier. Their golf bags are laid in line under the caddy captain's supervision. They have reserved a place and must wait hours for their turn to start. We lay down our bags and retire to the club restaurant for breakfast.

Breakfast being drawn out to the limit we take our place at the first tee. Golf reveals more human nature than any sport, and if you are interested in that fascinating study don't miss this chance.

The Practice Swings.

The waiting golf fiends in line for their turn on the tee practice swings. The majority being new converts are dubs. They handle the clubs sacredly, though awkwardly. Here and there is a fellow who knows the game. The crowd watches him awed with exclamations. "What form. Good shot!" as his ball soars high in the air. Drawing a graceful arc it lands straight on the distant fairway beyond. Just where he wants it.

There is a great deal of discussion about the merit of different shots. Some seem to prefer the full shot, others the half shot. One enthusiastic young caveman seizes his stick as if he were going to wallop his neighbor. He spins himself up like an automatic corkscrew. Then unsprings with startling force. Also he hits heavily behind the ball and breaks the club his wife had given him for a birthday present.

Marriage and golf teach patience. "Look hold your stick this way, dear," instructs a little clerk entreatingly to his fat wife. She appears stuffed with excelsior. Her flowered chintz dress and lamp-shade hat resemble the china cups that used to come inside the package.

Enter the Baby Vamp.

"I hold the stick the way they showed me how in the store," she retorts shrilly. "Now, Edward, you move over here. I won't have you looking over my shoulder at that baby vamp."

Edward sighs and moves. Who could blame him for gazing at the baby vamp. She had bobbed hair, a red sweater, a knee skirt and green stockings.

Speaking of baby vamps, one thing we must give close attention to the costumes of our fellow-sportsmen. The artist is free to express his soul. He certainly does it. The players can be divided into two broad types. Those who equipped themselves golfingly at a sporting goods store. Those who made a trip to the attic or ragbag.

The office Apollo is there in full force. He is all dolled up to vamp somebody else's stenographer. His pongy shirt flutters softly in the breeze.

His open collar Byronically exposes his manly neck. His brown golf cap matches his brown tweed knickers and heather-mixed stockings. His canvas bag is new and white, with leather

LEGACIES OF NATURE

WAITFULLY WATCHING THE DUB

HIGH GAME.

"My time," said the magnate, "is worth $100 a minute."
"Well," answered his friend casually, "let's go out this afternoon and play $10,000 or $15,000 worth of golf."

trimmings. His clubs shine. All winter he has watched his costume exhibited in a show window. He purchased it on the club plan. He catches the roving feminine eye. All is well—till he moves majestically to the tee. He makes his little mound of sand with exquisite care. He places his ball. He slashes through the air, tops the little pill; kicks it accidentally. The cutie's eyes are busy elsewhere as he begins over again.

This is the place to see a man love his clothes. Talk about women!

A great many men very sensibly play in khaki. One young ex-officer wears his whole uniform, puttees and all. Proud, though hot, is his middle name.

For the athletic maids the regulation togs—Peter Pan collar, sweater, plaid skirt, woolen stockings and sports shoes—are au fait.

Concerning the Pedal Extremities.

Anyone interested in legs will find the average golf course a fine place to study nature, male or female. The outlook is depressing. Comparatively few of the men show a fine, manly calf and straight knee. No wonder the English nobility used to make their dished-up footmen wear pads. A depressing thought comes to mind that legs must be pretty much the same the world over. The number of women who rest on solid supports is remarkable—especially when the breezes blow. It's a good stocking show, too, from butterfly cobwebs to ribbed wool.

We have said before that patience was part of the game. At least, after exercising it for two hours, we are allowed to drive off from the first tee. A "dub" mixed four-ball foursome is placed in front of us. Their balls roll into the long grass. They begin to look for them patiently like a monkey searching for fleas, while we stood chafing on the tee. You can chafe enough to scramble eggs if you let yourself. A long day of many waits and interruptions lies ahead.

A holiday tour to your public golf course is like a Shakespeare play. It has many side issues, interruptions and changes of scene, but ultimately it gets there, tragically or comically.

Once in the field the most modest of men will develop a new characteristic. He never does his best. "Gosh! but I'm in poor form today," is heard at the second hole.

Then he goes to prove it. There's a hillock called a bunker that was invented long ago by the dour Scotch. It is much beloved by the golf course architect. Some favor bunkers, while others prefer to plan pits to snare the unsuspecting golfer.

The golfer that gets into one has the time of his life. He has an excuse to swear to his heart's content. Neither sity to turn brick red under the warm summer sun. There is much mopping of heated faces and some of the fatter men seem decidedly out of breath. Their buoyancy and enthusiasm of the morning are gone. The perfect day has turned its meridian and is drawing to its downward close.

The sun drops in the sky, the shadows lengthen across the smoothly cut grass. The twilight romance creeps into the air. Couples drop the absorbing game to take up one of far more intense interest, that little game of love.

Oblivious to stray balls and warning "fores," they settle themselves in the woods and perch on the bunkers above mentioned. A special providence seems to watch over them.

A good hold is most important to beginners in golf. But the lovers, ah, they do not need instruction. They seem to have a firm and lasting clutch. The sun will set, the moon rise and they will probably still be there.

At last like the Shakespeare play, we make our way to the prologue or eighteenth green. The day ends tragically or comically, according to our luck. If we have gone round in less strokes than usual we go home with pictures of ourselves soon figuring as champions.

If misfortune has followed our strokes we are never going to play the dashed game again. Though 10 to 1 at our next possible chance, we will be hard at it.

So ends the perfect day.

does he have to go to Texas to get a sandstorm.

Family parties often bring along a reluctant young hopeful or two to caddy. Balls will go bobbing down brooks; boys will not see or sometimes go after them too zealously. Minor-comi-tragedies begin to occur.

"I bought you a pair of spectacles last week," raged one pater-familias to his thin, near-sighted son, who was fumbling in the long watery grasses with a rusty putter.

"But they was to read," replies the dejected youth making another dab into the water with his stick.

"Read, read," shrieks the irritated father, side-stepping up and down the bank. "They told me you could see. Who wants you just to read. I could have bought three expensive balls for the money I spent on you." He reached for his bald head, forgetfully intending to grab a handful of his ex-hair.

After the ninth hole is played at about 2 p. m., we begin to see the signs of the close of a perfect day.

"John, I do think you might stop and go home now and mow the grass," wails the wife who can never get anything done during the week.

"I'm quite too exhausted to mow the grass, my dear," says John, teeing up his ball with solemn interest and taking several vigorous preparatory swings.

He walks briefly after the ball as it lands far away on the fairway. His wife follows, wondering at the contradictory of human nature.

Some of the one-day-a-week athletes find that feet will grow sore from unaccustomed walking. White noses, necks and bald heads have a propen-
